

It's Platinum Time for Men

WHAT to make for that man in your life? It is hard to find something that has that all around appeal to the guys. Clocks fill that void with a touch of fun. Simple to do, inexpensive to assemble and when finished are something that is so personal that they will feel extra special.

You will need a piece of glitter felt, or fabric for face of clock. Duck cloth works well or any solid style fabric. You will also need an 8 or 9-inch household clock, a small straight end screwdriver and FabriTac glue.

Embroider your design on the glitter felt. Remove as much of the tear away stabilizer as possible.

Insert the small straight end screwdriver between the face and frame of clock. GENTLY wiggle it a bit at a time at each of its connection points till they release.

GENTLY remove the hands. Lay them down JUST LIKE they came off so you can easily replace them when finished. Remove the paper face.

Take the paper face, and put it with the numbers side facing up on the backside of the embroidery, matching the hole in the center and the direct straight of the 12,6,3,9. Using the FabriTac glue, attach the embroidery to the paper. Put under a heavy surface till dry.

Using a lace punch or small scissors cut out the center hole. Insert the embroidery into the cock. You can use a bit of the glue or double side tape to keep it in place. Now gently replace the hands, and the plastic face. Add a battery and you are all set to go.

Clocks are wonderful gifts for any occasion. They are something new and unique and with personalization or choice of design can match any décor or occasion.
